SeroTix

Tickets to Kenya's best nights out.

BRAND GUIDELINES

Version 1.0 — August 2026

01 — BRAND STORY

A ticketing platform built for how Kenya actually pays and parties.

> SeroTix exists to make buying a ticket to a night out as fast as the decision to go. Browse an event, pick a ticket type, pay with M-Pesa, and get a QR code on your phone in seconds — no card, no app download, no printing.

The brand carries the same energy as the events it sells tickets to: confident, a little bit nocturnal, unmistakably East African. It should never feel like a generic SaaS product wearing event-industry clothing — every design decision is made flat and deliberate rather than soft and gradient-heavy, because that's what separates a real product from a templated one.

Positioning: the fastest, most trustworthy way to buy tickets to concerts, festivals, comedy, and nightlife across Kenya.

Personality: direct, energetic, unpretentious. SeroTix talks like the friend who already has the group's tickets sorted — not like a corporate ticketing portal.

02 — LOGO

The mark

A literal ticket glyph — a perforated stub with a tear-line — rather than an abstract monogram. It should always read clearly as a ticket, even at favicon size.

ON DARK

ON LIGHT

Clear space & minimum size

Keep clear space around the mark equal to at least half its width on every side. Never render the mark smaller than 24px — below that, the tear-line perforation stops reading clearly.

DO

Use the mark on a flat, solid background — ink or paper, nothing between.

DON'T

Recolor the mark, add a drop shadow, place it on a gradient, or stretch its proportions.

03 — COLOR

A flat, functional palette — no decorative gradients

Violet is the one brand accent, used deliberately and flatly — never as a gradient blend. Crimson is reserved specifically for urgency and scarcity (sold out, low stock) — it is functional, not decorative.

Ink	Ink 2	Ink 3	Paper
#0A0912	#14111F	#1D1830	#F3F1F7

Accent (Violet)	Accent Dark	Crimson	Muted text
#7C3AED	#5B21B6	#C81E3A	#9D97AC

Category colors

Every event category has one fixed color, used consistently as a small tag everywhere it appears — this is information, not decoration.

Concert — #7C3AED	Festival — #FFB703
Nightlife — #00B39A	Comedy — #FFD60A
Theatre — #D62839	Sports — #2E7D32
Conference — #6B7A8F	Other — #8D99AE

04 — TYPOGRAPHY

A workhorse face, and one used only for the big moments

On the live product, body text and most headings are set in Archivo — a real grotesk with genuine weight range, not the "safe default" look. Bebas Neue is reserved for the handful of true poster moments (the homepage hero headline) — condensed, all-caps, high-energy — and is never applied to ordinary UI text.

DISPLAY — RESERVED FOR HERO MOMENTS (BEBAS NEUE ON THE LIVE SITE)

Kilifi Beach Festival

Concerts, festivals, nightlife and more — book in seconds and get a QR ticket straight to your phone.

Note: this PDF is set in Georgia/Helvetica for maximum portability across viewers. The live product uses Archivo and Bebas Neue, loaded from Google Fonts.

05 — VOICE & TONE

Direct, energetic, never corporate

Do

• Write like a text from a friend who already sorted the tickets: "Doors open in..." not "Please be advised that gates will open at..."

• Use real numbers and real urgency: "Only 6 left" beats "Limited availability."

• Keep CTAs as verbs: "Get Tickets", "Pay with M-Pesa", "Get Directions."

Don't

• Don't use exclamation-mark hype ("Don't miss out!!!") — confidence doesn't need to shout.

• Don't hide fees or terms in fine print — say the price, say what's included.

• Don't use generic stock-photo energy in copy ("Experience the magic of live music") — be specific to the actual event.

Example

DO

"Doors open for Kilifi Beach Festival in 3 days — get your Weekend Pass before it sells out."

DON'T

"Don't miss this AMAZING event!!! Tickets available now, act fast!!!"
